MILIBAND: TOWNS KEY TO LABOUR

WOULD-BE Labour leader David Miliband said Medway is a key battlefield in his Party's fight to regain power.

Mr Miliband, considered to be the number one contender to replace Gordon Brown as leader of the Labour Party, outlined the importance of the towns during a visit to Rochester on Saturday morning.

Saturday morning.
The 44-year-old former Foreign Secretary said: "If we can't win here we're not going to have a Labour government again."

During his two-hour stay Mr Miliband spoke with voters during a BY SIMON ROBINSON

relaxing walk along the cobbled Dickensian High Street before meeting with former Labour backers and Liberal Democrat supporters at the Visitor Information Centre for an hourlong question and answer session.

Afterwards he said winning back voters in marginal seats across the UK – including the three in Medway lost to the Conservatives this month – were key to Labour's plans of retaking power.

"The electorate gave us a kicking and we've got to show we understand that. We've then got to listen to them, that's why I've been talking to people on the street here," he said. "We've got to listen to them about

"We've got to listen to them about why they think we've lost touch. We've got to thank those who carried on voting for us. For those who left the Labour family, we've got to understand why and then we've got to get them back.

SCALLY IN TALKS FOR HESS RETURN

Gills legend Andy Hessenthaler could be in line for a sensational return to

The former midfield maestro – voted by fans as the club's best player of all time – has been linked with the vacant manager's position, following Mark Stimson's departure last week. Club chairman Paul Scally has officially requested permission to speak to the 44-year-old, who is currently in charge of Blue Square South outfit Dover.

Mr Scally said he had received more than 40 applications for the job. Ex-Barnet boss Martin Allen and former Gills players Micky Adams and Joe Dunne have also been linked with the post.

Is Boris still pursuing plans for his airport?

BY STEVE KNIGHT

THE cancellation of plans for a third runway at Heathrow has led to fresh concerns over the controversial Thames Estuary airport scheme being pursued.

port scheme being pursued.
As part of the historic coalition agreement, both the Conservatives and Lib Dems announced they will not allow the third runway, nor any additional ones at Gatwick or Stansted.

The news came just days after London Mayor Boris Johnson said he still wanted a Thames Estuary airport despite leaving the oft-criticised scheme off the capital's transport strategy.

Mr Johnson believes a £40 billion floating airport could be built off the coast of the Isle of Sheppey within 10 years, but his plans have been blasted by politicians, environmentalists and members of the public alike.

Despite his unwavering support for the proposal, the Conservative mayor made no mention of it upon launching his transport strategy for London last week.

However, it was later revealed that Mr Johnson still intends to pursue the project – nicknamed Boris Island – which he sees as a viable alternative to a third runway at Heathrow tive to a third runway at Heathrow.

A spokesman said: "The mayor was asked about the Thames Estuary plan at the launch, and the reason why it wasn't included was because it wasn't allowed to be.

"His remit doesn't cover anything outside the London boundary.

"But he gave an unequivocal statement that it's not dead, and I'm sure we'll be hearing more about it in the future."

Last January a feasibility study

PLANE WORRIED: There are still concerns that Boris Island will go ahead conducted by Medway Council planning officers concluded that such an airport would be too far from London, too near a major liquid natural gas port and would cause significant harm to the Kent landscape.

The report also pointed out that Kent International Airport at Manston already has one of the longest runways in Europe and could be connected to the existing high-speed rail service at a fraction of what it would cost with Boris Island.

A Medway Council spokesman said: "Although it seems promising that the Mayor of London has not included his proposals for a Thames Estuary airport in his new transport strategy, I believe he really needs to clarify his position.

"We have said from the off that this airport is a pie-in-the-sky scheme, and we will continue to be vigilant and campaign against it until it is dropped."

Kent County Council leader Cllr Paul Carter has spoken out repeatedly against Mayor Johnson's plans.

Of his question and answer session with Medway voters, Mr Miliband added: "We've had the sort of meeting that makes me proud to be a member of the Labour Party.

"It was passionate about the Medway Towns, passionate about local issues, but also passionate about the values that bring us into the Labour Party; giving everyone a fair chance; making sure that rights are matched by responsibilities; and giving everybody the opportunities they need to succeed."

Mr Miliband has been backed for the Labour leadership by Party members across Kent including former MPs Gwyn Prosser and Jonathan Shaw.

Happy ending for dog thrown on motorway

BY SIMON ROBINSON

A LOVABLE puppy that was left for dead after being thrown from a moving car at Christmas has been nurtured back to health by the police worker who received the 999 call.

The dumped dog – named Max by his new owner – suffered life-threatening injuries after being hurled from a vehicle on Sunday, December 27, 2009.

Two other young dogs were also thrown from the car and sadly died.

Max, who was underfed and covered with fleas and worms, escaped with a broken jaw and front leg.

Vets said he was extremely close to death.

Max's owner, Kent Police force communications supervisor Laura Wills, took the call and dispatched a unit to the scene in Rochester.

She said: "When PC Dave Brett arrived on the scene he found two of the puppies were already dead.

"He took Max to the PDSA and I got in contact to say that if he survived I would take him.

"The next day I took him home, but he spent a lot of time at the vets as both his jaw and his leg had been broken and he had a big plaster cast. He also had fleas and worms, but was still desperate to play and have fun."

More than £1,100 of veterinary bills and five months of round-the-clock care later Max has made a full recovery from his horrific injuries. Laura said: "He was 1.4 kilograms when we got him and now he is about 11 kilograms. He

PC David Brett added: "This was a really heartbreaking call to attend. It is hard to believe anyone could treat animals so badly. "A combination of love and excellent medical care has helped nurse him back to health. "Unfortunately, we didn't get enough information to find the culprit, but what is really great to see is that Max now has owners that love him. If anyone does have any information we would like them to get in touch on 01622 690690 and I would like to thank the members of the public who stopped and helped until we arrived on the scene."

Laura said Max was now one of the family. "It was an upsetting incident to deal with from a work perspective, but from a personal point of view, after a lot of hard work, we have an amazing addition to our family," she said.

Mark Victor Attwater, of Jefferson Drive, Rainham, attacked another driver following a collision on the M2 junction  $\,$ three interchange at Aylesford in October 2008.

Attwater brought his Mercedes and the following Citroën to a stop on the slip road before getting out of his vehicle to remonstrate with the other man. He then assaulted the Citroën driver. When the victim returned to his car Attwater snatched his keys from the ignition.

While the men argued about swapping contact details a Mini smashed into the victim's Citroen and Attwater's Mercedes, causing severe damage to all three vehicles. The driver and passenger of the Citroën and the driver of the third car were all injured.

Attwater walked away unhurt.

Charged

Kent Police's serious collisions investigation unit carried out an in-depth inquiry into the incident, leading to charges of assault and dangerous driving being brought against Attwater.

He pleaded not guilty at Maidstone Crown Court, but was found guilty and was sentenced to 12 months in prison and disqualified from driving for three years.

Serious collisions unit head Inspector Rob Smith, said "This is a very satisfying outcome to a road rage incident and shows that the courts take such offences seriously. Three people were injured, but it could have been much worse.

"I hope this case reinforces to all road users that a fit of temper behind the wheel is not only inappropriate, but extremely dangerous.

"Thankfully road rage incidents, that result in physical injuries, are uncommon.'

Drink driver gets a one-year ban

A DRINK driver has been disqualified for 12 months after being caught behind the wheel while more than twice over the legal limit.

Amy Hardie, 23, of Shipwrights Avenue, Chatham, was stopped in her Volkswagen Caddy in London Road, Rainham, on April 15. A breath test showed she had 76 microgrammes of alcohol per 100 millilitres of breath. The legal limit was sentenced Medway Magistrates Court on May 6. She was disqualified from driving for 12 months, fined £100 and ordered to pay £100 costs.

Guilty plea from Co-op shoplifter

A SHOPLIFTER has been ordered to pay more than £350 after stealing a cartful of alcohol from a Gillingham supermarket.

Ashley Richardson, 25, of St John's Road, Gillingham, was caught in January making off with £98.99 of alcohol from the High Street Co-op store.

Richardson pleaded guilty to shoplifting at Medway Magistrates

Court on May 4.

He was fined £167 and ordered to pay compensation of £100 and costs of £100.

A MULTI-million pound town centre health facility is nearing completion.

The £4.7 million Balmoral Gardens complex is expected to be finished by mid-July ahead of an official opening date in August.

The Gillingham building will house three GP practices and a pharmacy as well as sexual health, midwifery and children's services.

NHS Medway media manager Emma Burns said: "With this build-ing we are doing something for the people of Gillingham. It will make it more convenient for people as it is in the town centre and it it will get people thinking about health.'

The Balmoral Gardens centre is Medway's fourth such facility, following on from the opening of similar health complexes in Lordswood, Rochester and Rainham.

Ms Burns added: "We have found a pattern that works with the other centres and we are sticking with that here. This is part of a health drive which focuses on more than just a hospital cure.

"We want to make the facilities readily available to residents and to go them thinking more about their own health."

Once construction work and decorating has been finished there will be a month overlap for services and staff to move into the new building before the old centre, also on the Balmoral Gardens site, is torn down. The land will be turned into a children's play area and park.

Flytippers and rubbish-hoarding residents targeted by Medway Council's clean up team

UNSIGHTLY: Flytipper Raphael Tizora has been fined £165 after discarding of these bags of rubbish

Dumper ends in a fine mess

A FLYTIPPER has been ordered to pay £165 after dumping six bulging bags of rubbish by the side of the road.

Raphael Tizora, of Wedgewood Drive, Chatham, left the household waste in Shawsted Lane - a notorious flytipping spot-last July.

The 46-year-old had intended to drop the rubbish at the nearby tip but when he found it was closed he left the sacks of rubbish further down the lane.

Tizora pleaded guilty to flytipping at Medway Magistrates Court on Thursday,

He was fined £75 and ordered to pay £75 costs plus a £15 victim surcharge.

Medway Council's frontline services boss Andy McGrath said: "The council's officers work hard day in day out to make Medway a more attractive place for everyone.

"While we can appreciate this was an impulsive act by Mr Tizora after finding the council waste site shut there is no excuse for dumping rubbish in this way.

"Fly-tipping can present a hazard to the public, it can pollute the land and it looks unsightly. Cases like this show how determined Medway Council is to keeping Medway's environment clean and green.

Garden junkyard owner fined

A STUBBORN homeowner has been ordered to pay more than £2,000 after refusing to clean up his rubbish-filled garden.

Bus driver Barrie Taylor has ignored repeated pleas from council staff to tidy the front and back garden of his property in Woodstock Road, Strood, which has become an unlicensed dump.

Angry neighbours complained to Medway Council's environment enforcement team after rubbish from Mr Taylor's property began spilling out into the streets.

The back garden alone plays host to a fridge - with rotting food still inside - an upturned washing machine, dozens of refuse sacks, chairs, two white bedsteads, a clothes airer and a shed door.

The 51-year-old Londoner was originally summonsed to appear at Medway Magistrates Court in January.

He failed to appear and was fined £390. Taylor, of Plumstead, south east London, was due before the same court on Thursday, May 6, but once again failed to appear.

TIP: Barrie Taylor has been ordered to pay a £2,000 fine

He was ordered to pay a further fine of £2,000 plus £125 costs and a £15 victim sur-charge – leaving him £2,530 worse off in total. In a separate case, Medway homeowner Richard Dickson, was ordered to pay £490 after the front garden of a vacant property he owns at Redfern Avenue, Gillingham, became so overgrown that brambles were spilling out onto the pavement.

Organised cash card crimes hit supermarket

CASH card criminals are being hunted by police after carrying out a spate of thefts across Medway since the turn of the year.

QUESTION & ANSWER

Tell us a bit about yourself.

My name is Joleen Barling, I am 33 years A old, married with three beautiful children. I was born with only my right hand, my left finishes just below the elbow.

I was always extremely active and independent as a child, and still am today. Having a disability has made me push myself more, and as a dancer/cheerleader it sometimes has been tough, thinking that people are always watching the girl with one arm! But it just made me a stronger person, I was able to be a base in cheerleading (Holding the girls in their stunts) and do the gymnastics side, cartwheels, arab springs, backflips, walkovers etc.

Now did you get involved with dance and cheerleading?

My mother Helen McNally was a dancer and dance teacher, so dance and performing is in my blood. I have taught dance since the age of 16, for my mum first, then in colleges and then opened my own school. My passion for cheer began when I auditioned for GFC in 2000. Then I was hooked, I became the coach took all my coaching certificates and started my own classes.

How difficult was it to start the troop and get members to sign on in the first few weeks and months?

It was hard to get new members and still is now, people don't really seem to know a lot about cheerleading, so don't go for it as a hobby. But things are starting to get better now thanks to High School Musical, Glee, etc.

Mhere do your members compete and at what level?

We compete at British Cheerleading Association competitions all over the UK. We are currently at level two, pushing for level three. We are the longest-established cheer school in the Medway towns and I am the only cheer coach in Medway to have competed and choreographed at national and international level. I am extremely proud of my cheerleaders and their achievements.

How popular is cheerleading in Medway? Is it still looked upon as a mainly American past-time?

I have been teaching cheer for ten years in Medway, and my classes were small, but of a high standard. People are only now becoming to recognise what cheerleading is. We had great results at comps and we are like a family. We are located in a purpose-built gym with outstanding facilities so are hoping to get lots of new cheerleaders this year.

What has been your greatest success so far?

My greatest success is to be happy in what AI do. It's great to see students improve, make lifelong friends, share great experiences, and, of course, win lots of trophies.

Mhat are you aims and goals for the future?

My goal is to have a programme full of A cheerleaders, wanting to be the best they can be in our area.

What would you say to someone who has never tried cheerleading before to get them to come along?

Cheer is a great hobby to have, it covers Adance, gymnastics, stunts, team work, stamina, flexibility, spirit and friendships.

What is your personal favourite type of dance?

My favourite is cheer, it's very addictive. I A hate not competing anymore and watching my senior team. I want to be there with them.

What has been the best show or production that you have seen, and which one would you most like to see?

My favourite Musical was Footloose in the West End, it's very upbeat and fast.

Anything else you would like to add?

I am on the books of modelling agency Visable, for models with disabilities, and have had a few jobs from them. If you have a disability, you should try not let it stop you doing the things you want to do, if possible. Life is too short.

The coach for the Medway Cheerleading and Dance Academy, based in Chatham, talks to Mathew Beech about the growing passion for cheerleading in the UK, her love of her job and overcoming her disability

Trio charged after burglary spree

THREE Gillingham men have been charged after six burglaries were carried out during an eight-day period.

out during an eight-day period.

Aaron Wren, 20, of Livingstone Road,
Aaron Harris, 20, of Canterbury Street, and Obie Redsell, 21 of Leslie Road, were arrested on Thursday, May 6.

They were charged with conspiracy to commit burglary the following day. The burglaries were carried out between Wednesday, April 28 and Thursday, May 6. Properties in Chatham, Strood, Gillingham and Rainham were targeted. The men all appeared at Medway Magistrates Court on Saturday, May 8.

Wren was released on bail while Harris and Redsell were both remanded into custody.

Broken ankle for man hit by Skoda

A MOTORIST suffered a broken ankle after being struck by a hit-and-run driver. The 25-year-old Rochester man was hit

The 25-year-old Rochester man was hit by a blue Skoda Octavia at 10.30pm on Wednesday, April 7. The driver of the vehicle had crashed into the back of the victim's grey Alfa Romeo in City Way, Rochester. When the driver got out to assess the damage in West Drive, Chatham, the Skoda driver hit him in the leg, breaking his ankle.

Investigating officer Detective Constable Sunita Dale said: "We are keen to hear from anyone who may have seen these two cars."

For sale: Bomb proof property with sea views

SITTING a kilometre out at sea and cut off from civilisation except at low tide, Number One The Thames may not be the postman's favourite address.

The 145-year-old building could also fail to live up to its grand title, which, like Number One London at Hyde Park Corner – assumes some grandeur.

But despite its rundown appearance, the Grain Battery Tower is thought of affectionately by its owner Simon Cooper who believes it is like "a little round castle out at sea".

The 38-year-old, who bought the old gun tower six years ago, has put it up for sale and expects at least £500,000 for the bomb-proof building.

"My original intention was to turn it into a house," he said.

"It would make a great home, but maybe not if you have children. It's cut off by the tides so you can only access it by boat, except at low tide when you can walk.

"Also, if you wanted to just pop out for a loaf

BY MARIJKE COX

of bread, I can imagine it would be quite frustrating."

But the Chatham-born entrepreneur, who now lives in Bromley, said the tower — which is located on mudflats at the Isle of Grain in Medway — would be perfect as a hub for houseboats.

"Td like to see it made into a houseboat centre, with water sports, a restaurant, bed and breakfasts and even a rock climbing wall," he said

"It's listed as a National Monument so the outside could not change too much. The new owner would have to work with English Heritage and take the right routes to develop it.

"It's part of the community now and I would want it to stay that way."

The tower is similar to the east Kent coast's Martello Towers, which were built as a defence against Napoleon in the early 19th century.

Located on the Grain Spit, artillery fire from the battery tower was used to defend the entrance to the River Medway and Sheerness.

BATTERY TOWER: 145 year old national monument sitting a kilometre out to sea has been put up for sale

It was upgraded with new guns in the early 20th century and later became a boom defence against enemy ships.

It was then heavily modified with a concrete barrack block with access to the main tower.

But despite its eight foot thick walls and rundown appearance, Mr Cooper believes it has a bright future.

"I think it could attract investment – it's such an unusual property and a real boys' toy," he said

Access to the building is only possible on foot at low tide and Mr Cooper said anyone who wants to have a look around must check the tide times before leaving – unless they have a boat

Inside the circular building is a collection of chambers and spiral staircases, with a jetty and spectacular views out to Sheerness.

Mr Cooper said he has already turned down offers

"I want this kept as part of the community, like it always has been – I don't really want it turned into an exclusive place," he said.

Stimson goes as Scally cuts Gills jobs after latest defeat

WHIRLWIND Gillingham FC has led to an uncertain future for players and supporters of Kent's only Football League club.

Chairman Paul Scally moved quickly following the Gills' second relegation in three seasons last weekend, first announcing the departure of manager Mark Stimson and then the surprising release of all 14 out-of-contract

The Dubai-based businessman told the BBC he was angered by the manner of the team's 3-0 defeat at Wycombe, which sealed the club's fate in front of more than 2,700 away fans.

He said: "The performance was alarming for me and I troubled about it all over the weekend. I don't remember feeling as low as I feel at the moment, because I feel I've failed.

"I appointed the manager and I stuck by him. I gave him the funds he needed at every instance, I worked him a decent budget and I think we've got a very good squad of players."

BY STEVE KNIGHT

Former Grays and Stevenage boss Stimson was appointed Gills manager in November 2007, but was unable to halt the club's slide into League Two.

His new-look team bounced straight back with promotion via the play-offs in May 2009, but failed to win a single away game in a disappointing return to the third flight.

Resignation

Supporters verbally abused Stimson and called for him to resign following the disastrous defeat at Wycombe, but the 42-year-old refused to budge until Mr Scally forced his hand two days later.

SHAKE-UP: Gillingham FC chairman Paul Scally, left, and the favourite to take over as manager, Andy Hessenthaler

"I'm contracted but that will be up to the chairman," Stimson told KOS Media after the game.

"He'll make that decision and I'm sure he'll be honest with me. You can see that the supporters weren't too happy at the end and there were shouts of my name.

"That's a discussion myself and the chairman will have, and I'm sure he will make the right decision that he thinks will take the club

The day after Stimson left the club by "mutual consent", it was announced that all 14 out-of-contract players had been released and were free to seek employment elsewhere.

These included captain Barry Fuller and popular veterans Simon Royce and Mark

However, it was noted that the next manager would reassess the situation when he is Early favourite for the job is former playermanager Andy Hessenthaler, who recently missed out on three successive promotions with his new club Dover Athletic.

Hessenthaler told KOS Media early this week that he had received no contact from Mr Scally, but that he would like to return to fulltime management.

"Tve never hidden my desire to return to Football League management," he said. "But I am on contract at Dover and have a job to do to win the Conference South next season.

Another candidate had been thought to be first team coach Mark Robson, but he was released from his role at the club on Tuesday.

Paedophile gets foreign travel ban

A NOTORIOUS sex offender has been banned from visiting an entire continent.

The foreign travel order prevents pae-dophile Frederick Stephens from going to Asia where it is believed he intended to buy a wife'.

He had been part of the Wonderland Club that was smashed in 1998.

Stephens was among 107 men arrested for 'trading' photos of children over the internet.

Stephens was jailed in 2001 for child sex offences.

This new order prevents the 55-yearold from going anywhere in the Far East for three years, thanks to the efforts of worried detectives.

The Margate father-of-two is also forbidden from entering Turkey

It follows a civil action at Canterbury Magistrates Court. The case will not be reviewed again until at least May 2013.

Officers lodged the application after Stephens went to the Philippines last year without informing police, breaking a stipulation of his sentence for the distribution of indecent images of children in 2001.

A judge jailed him for 14 months last October for the breach.

He was brought to Canterbury from Wandsworth prison for the hearing last

A police source said: "He had to inform the police of his plans, and he didn't. That means he is back behind bars.'

Disabled war hero in bid to join historic North Pole trek

The chosen pair will drag heavy sledges 300 miles across the frozen Arctic Ocean in temperatures as low as -50C, without outside support.

Mr Copsey, a father-of-two, said the North Pole expedition would be the ultimate challenge, particularly for an amputee.

"I hope it will inspire the recently wounded servicemen and women to continue with their brave rehabilitation and help them to be able to look forward to a bright future," he said.

"I want to prove that the ultimate challenges can still continue despite any injuries sustained.

"Since my injury I have received help from charities devoted to helping ex-servicemen and women and I want to try and give something back to others who now

He added: "Life is not a rehearsal - you only get one go - so I am going to give it

Mr Copsey is up against Guy Disney, 28, who lost his leg while under fire in Afghanistan in 2009; Matt Kingston, 25, who had his foot removed after being shot through the ankle in Afghanistan in 2007, and Martin Hewitt, who was left with a paralysed right arm after being shot in 2007 while serving on the frontline.

Mr Copsey said: "I am 100 per cent focused on my training to get on the expedition. I do not want to let myself down, but more importantly, I don't want to let anyone else down."

The two successful applicants will be chosen later this year.

And joining them for part of their gruelling four-week trek – as long as military commitments allow – will be Prince Harry, patron of the Walking With the Wounded charity, which is organising the March, 2011, trip.

At the launch of the project, the 25-yearold Prince expressed a desire to take part, paying tribute to the "unquenchable spirit" of injured servicemen and women.

Organisers hope the polar expedition will raise £1 million to help rehabilitate wounded service personnel back into the Donations will also be made to Help For Heroes, which helps those wounded in British conflicts.

FINALIST: Robert Copsey hopes making the team for the unaided trek will inspire fellow wounded servicemen and women to overcome their injuries

Anniversary show wins the support of Lloyd-Webber

AN ANNIVERSARY production of 'Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat' at a Rochester school has been praised by the Mayor of Medway.

Mayor David Royale saw the performance and praised the cast and production team on stage, before taking up an offer to don Joseph's famous jacket. He is pictured above with the cast.

The King's School in Rochester staged the production to mark the 40th anniversary of the school's previous production of the show, which was attended by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice.

Pupils from St Andrew's School in Rochester, St Joseph's Convent from Gravesend and Grange Park School in Leybourne were in the audience, which also included children and carers from the Demelza House Children's Hospice.

Headmaster Kevin Jones said: "The audience was delighted, the mayor was pleased and so am I with the excellent job done by pupils and staff at King's."

Neither Andrew Lloyd Webber nor Tim Rice were able to watch the production this time, although they did pass on their best wishes to cast and crew in the souvenir programme, produced in aid of The Royal Marsden Cancer Campaign.

Designer proud to be first chancellor of art college

BY ANNA WHITE

LEGENDARY fashion icon Zandra Rhodes has become the first chancellor to be installed at her former art college in Kent.

The eccentric designer was inducted into her new role at the University for the Creative Arts during a colourful ceremony, which included a catwalk show of pinkwigged models – inspired by Rhodes' own fluorescent hair-do.

The fashionista, whose celebrity clients have included Kylie Minogue, Freddie Mercury, Princess Diana and actress Sarah Jessica Parker, attended UCA's Rochester campus when it was The Medway College of Design.

Her mother also taught there.

After accepting her new title on Thursday, May 6, Rhodes said: "It is an enormous honour to become the very first Chancellor of the University for the Creative Arts, where I began my own studies.

"I will make it my upmost priority to ensure that future generations of students continue to have the same positive and inspiring experience as I did."

To ensure she was not upstaged by the glamorous models, the icon made her own style statement at the London event by wearing an eye-catching pink and green gown, which she had designed especially for the ceremony the ceremony.

"I wanted to create something that had the wow factor, but remained with the sense of the occasion," she said. "I hope the distinctive colour scheme and intricately designed embroidery puts my own mark on what is usually a subdued, black garment."

As the university's chancellor, Rhodes will represent all five of the institution's sites, which are based in Rochester, Oakwood Park in Maidstone, Canterbury, Epsom and Farnham

It will be her duty to preside at UCA's graduation ceremonies and she will be the only other person apart from the vice-chancellor, Professor Elaine Thomas, with the power to award degrees to students.

Professor Thomas said: "We sought someone with energy, drive, and most importantly, a passion for creativity — Zandra Rhodes has displayed this throughout her high-profile career and we are proud to have her as our chancellor."

Distinguished

Chairman of UCA's board of governors, Loyd Grossman, said he believes the famous designer's successful career in the fashion industry will benefit the students' own futures.

Grossman, a former journalist at the Sunday Times, said: "Zandra is one of the world's most recognisable, distinguished and exciting designers.

"Her career has been built upon the foundations of hard work and determination which we believe will help inspire and motivate our students in their chosen careers."

Other famous former UCA students include fashion designers Karen Millen OBE and Jeff Banks CBE, and artist Tracey Emin.

Criticism of MP was unfair and untrue

I was extremely upset by the unfair comments made about Mark Reckless in your letters by Mr Abrami (Wednesday, May 5).

The slur that we had "a free ride" at the fundraising function was completely untrue, since I paid the entry fees, we bought our lunch from the barbecue and bought delicious home-made cakes.

From the onset of the programme of school closures and affiliations I stated that the situation with regard to St Peter's was not "a done deal". With this as a starting point and my former association as chairman of governors for many years, Mark and I mounted a campaign to save this brilliant school

We spent time at the school both socially and as official visitors. Mark was very impressed by the dedication of the staff and the happiness of the children.

We were both totally committed to save St Peter's. The parental campaign was first class - Mark and I applaud them for their hard work. I know Mark will make an excellent MP. He is a fair-minded and honourable man who I am pleased to call my friend.

Coalition a recipe for more unemployment

Kent Green Party has examined the statements explaining what the new Coalition Government will do. Our immediate conclusion is that unemployment will rise significant-

The new coalition is committed to immediate cuts in public spending of £6 billion, with worse to follow. This will, without question, lead to a rise in unemployment nationally and here in Kent and Medway.

This coalition is planning a second recession. Sectors such as local government, the civil service and the university sector are already shedding lots of jobs, despite obvious staff shortages.

This could be avoided: we could tax the wealthiest fifth of households more, and increase taxes on large corporations, whilst closing tax loopholes and bringing in a tax on currency transactions.

We can also cut the bloated defence budget by bringing our forces home from Afghanistan in

Or rather, it's not. In fact, it's not hiding much at all and therein lies the problem.

Nurses from Medway Maritime Hospital looked at some of the common misconceptions about nursing and how things have changed since the Lady with the Lamp walked the wards.

"A nurse is an assistant to the doctor"; "I'd equate nursing with something like hairdressing - there are some skills involved but not too technical"; "Not for those who could do a degree"; "I'm not sure you need to be a leader to be a good nurse – surely doctors have the final say anyway".

Those are just some of the comments highlighted in a recent report about nursing, which show that the public generally believe nurses to be put-upon victims of their vocation, unambitious and usually female.

The public image of nursing appears to have changed little since the days of Florence Nightingale.

This couldn't be further from the truth. Nurses are highly-skilled, educated to degree level and enjoy autonomy in their roles.

They work closely alongside doctors, not below them, and they are highly respected. And the number of male nurses entering the profession is increasing all the time.

I think nursing is being done a disservice and I think it's only right to dispel some of these myths and let people know what a career in nursing is really like. Senior Sister and A&E nurse practitioner Inma Diaz, who began her nursing career in Spain, said: "In Spain, the role of nurse is more like a doctor's assistant, so when I came to the UK it was a bit of a shock at first.

"Here, we diagnose, treat and discharge many minor injury patients without the need for a doctor.

"I originally wanted to go into medicine and decided to use nursing as a route into medical school, but once I began nursing I loved it and I decided that I wanted to care for people, not just prescribe for them. I studied in Spain and gained a diploma and now I am studying for a degree.

"It takes a lot to be a nurse – you need to be caring; have good communication skills; diplomacy; empathy and stamina. I try to treat people as if they were my own family.

"I think nurses run hospitals and they are very knowledgeable - the human body is a complicated and beautiful machine and you need to know how it runs. Nurses have led a lot of the recent improvements in the NHS.

Acute pain nurse specialist Martin Kuhn added: "Nursing has changed a lot since I qualified in 1981. There are a lot more options now for nurses who want to specialise in particular areas

"Nurses nowadays are highly skilled and there is a high expectation of them. In addition to the skills and knowledge you have to be compassionate, motivated and prepared to listen and negotiate with patients to agree their care with them. I love my job and being on the wards, working with patients and other nurses and helping people. The work is varied – no two days are ever the same."

tioneering.
As for the BNP's 'indigenous' line, it was the 'English' who swamped the Celtic peoples etc about 1,500 or so years ago.

So in 1,010 AD it would have been Angles and Saxons in this country. Brits - who came from Brittany - Jutes, Vikings, Romans etc, etc, out perhaps?

Also, after the last ice-age, the locals were just hunter gatherers and, as has been found from recent genetic research, it was migrants from the Middle East who brought their farming techniques and then inter-married to foster 'modern civilisation'.

Who then is 'indigenous'? As for 'foreign companies' buying some of ours, it's swings and roundabouts.

We set-up and/or owned many of them originally during the sad old, and largely disreputable in my view, Empire days from which Mr Williams etc seem to be suffering a hangover.

Economies, as with companies, rise and decline and always have. However, I suggest we need to move on to seek better and more internationalist ways of doing things, and so find prosperity without growth as more and more economists are arguing for.

So I leave the BNP to selfimplode via its internal squabbles such as the recent coup attempt by Mark Collett (who has already been exposed on TV for praising Hitler) whilst the rest of us will continue to expose them to the public.

Cocker's sound idea for Trust

MUSICIAN Jarvis Cocker has worked with the National Trust to create an album taking listeners on a journey around its properties across Britain.

The former Pulp frontman has produced the 33-minute soundtrack titled National Trust: The Album, using the sounds of birdsong, crashing waves and the wind rushing through country gar-

One of the tracks features sounds from Chartwell, the former home of Sir Winston Churchill at Westerham, near Sevenoaks. The album, which is available to download free from the National Trust website, has taken three months to produce.

A spokesman said: "It is designed to showcase the peace and tranquility people enjoy when they visit the special places cared for by the National Trust."

Online judgement puts sentencing ball in your court

BY CHRIS MURPHY

THINK there are too many hardened criminals on our streets because of "soft" sentencing by outof-touch courts and judges?

If so, check out a new interactive website which has been launched in Kent to counter that perception by allowing the public to pass their own sentences on virtual villains

They can then compare the outcome of real life cases, with names changed, with their own sentencing suggestions.

One case is already online, and it appears most people agreed with the bench of magistrates shown in the interactive film of a man found guilty of criminal damage and given a community sentence. But a few wanted him locked up for three months. More cases will be uploaded in the coming months.

The Kent Criminal Justice Board (KCJB) said it is concerned many people still don't know what happens inside a real court room, nor appreciate how complex an apparently simple hearing can

It has created a chance for the public to judge and pass sentence on a real-life criminal court cases. The interactive guide to sentencing takes the viewer along the passage of justice step by step, explaining some of the usually hidden details.

It shows how the decision-making process works and gives visitors to the site the chance to be the judge and pass sentence themselves. Acting Chief Constable of Kent Adrian Leppard, who chairs the Kent Criminal Justice Board, said: "Improving people's knowledge of how the criminal justice system in general and the courts in particular work is a key factor in improving public confidence."

Deputy chairman of the Magistrates' Association, John Fassenfelt, who sits on the Central Kent Bench, said: "The website is designed to open the system up to communities and help them see, first-hand, that the punishment fits the crime and the important part that magistrates courts play in serving their commu-

Searchers rock, five decades n

THE SEARCHERS Sunday, May 30 Hazlitt Theatre, Maidstone

HUNT down some musical memories when The Searchers bring their timeless sound to Maidstone.

For 50 years, the band has been entertaining crowds with their great 60s hits and their popularity has rarely wavered. From their humble beginnings on the Northern club scene, the Searchers now perform all over the world, from the US to the Far East.

Formed in 1960 as a backing group for Johnny Sandon, the Liverpool-based band took its name from the John Wayne film of the same name. The line-up included John McNally, Mike Pender, Tony Jackson and Norman McGarry, but it has evolved over the decades and McNally is the only founding member remaining.

Together they played at the Iron Door Club and won the attention of the Beatles' influential manager, Brian Epstein. But when Epstein agreed to come and see them play in London, the band squandered the chance by spending too long in the pub before the gig.

Sandon left the band in 1961 to take his chances with the Remo Four, but the remaining members continued to play at legendary Liverpool clubs such as the Cavern. The following year they made the trip to Hamburg, which was 'the beat Mecca of the Continent' at the time, and soon won over the German music lovers.

The Beatles had already opened Europe's eyes to the potential of British bands and when the Searchers returned to the UK, they signed a contract with Pye Records and were managed by Tony Hatch.

After a slow start, their first single Sweets for My Sweet climbed to the top of the charts and knocked the Beatles off the top spot.

Chart-toppers

They followed this early success with the number two single Sugar and Spice, before releasing another chart-topper, Needles and Pins. Further hits came with Don't Throw Your Love Away and Some Day We're Gonna Love Again.

When vocalist and bass guitarist Tony Jackson decided to leave in 1964 and form The Vibrations, the arrival of Frank Allen saved the band from possible disaster. Allen became one of the best front men of the 60s and remains with the band to this day.

The Searchers continued to thrive over the next two years, releasing hits such as When You Walk in the Room, Goodbye My Love, What Have They Done to the Rain and Take Me for What I'm Worth. More line-up changes followed and during the 70s, the band began to move away from the pop charts and on to the cabaret circuit, but they released two new albums to critical acclaim.

When Mike Pender left in 1985 after more than 20 years with the band, the Searchers entered an uncertain phase.

But there was a resurgence in the popularity of 60s music during the 80s and, with gifted new member Spencer James on board, the band embarked on national package tours and released a compilation album to mark their 25th anniversary.

During the 90s, the band's popularity soared and they began making appearances at festivals, 60s weekends and their own solo shows. Travelling all over the world to entertain fans and the troops, the Searchers were once again an international force and they continue to rock venues everywhere.

Today's line-up comprises John McNally, Frank Allen, Scott Ottaway and Spencer

The band has devised a special concert for this UK tour, which features all their best-loved hits, along with original album recordings, B-side tracks and other favourite songs.

The show starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £17/£16. To book call the box office on 01622 758611 or visit the website at www.hazlittartscentre.co.uk.

DURING World War II, national morale was supported by a handful of very special enter-

When the armed forces and civilians were facing the horror and uncertainty of conflict, music and song were important weapons in keeping despair at bay. The tunes that became wartime favourites continue to resonate today and these unforgettable songs are celebrated in We'll Meet Again.

For more than nine years, the show has been taking audiences on a trip down Memory Lane and keeping the legacy of iconic 40s stars alive. From Vera Lynn and Max Miller, to Bing Crosby and Al Jolson, We'll Meet Again remembers the music and comedy that played an important role in the war effort.

So sit back, enjoy the show and remember the days when there were bluebirds over the White Cliffs of Dover in this nostalgic and affectionate concert.

The performance starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £11/£10. Discounts of £2 off the top-priced tickets are available for groups. To book call the box office on 01634 338338 or visit www.thecentraltheatre.co.uk.

JEZ LOWE AND THE BAD PENNIES

Friday, May 21, Memorial Hall, Lower Halstow

THE Bad Pennies will be turning up in Lower Halstow this week, along with acclaimed singer Jez

Described by BBC Radio 2 as one of our best songwriters, Lowe is skilled at combining bittersweet lyrics with lively melodies to create an unforgettable sound. For 15 years, Lowe and the Bad Pennies have been performing their songs and music of Northern England all over the world. Lowe won a Sony Award for his songwriting work on the BBC's Radio Ballads series and has been nominated for the BBC Radio 2 Folk Awards.

Lowe is joined by Kate Bramley on fiddle and duet vocals, Tyneside champion Northumbrian piper Andy May on pipes, whistles and piano and fretless bass supremo David de la Haye on bass and vocals.

In their show Northern Echoes, the band combines traditional and contemporary songs to toe-tapping effect. With Badapple Theatre, the show is enhanced with vintage video and photography.

Part of the Applause Rural Touring spring season, the concert starts at 8pm and tickets cost £8/£7. To book call 01795 843681/842419 or email cpc@claxfield.co.uk.

JACQUI DANKWORTH

Saturday, May 22, The Mick Jagger Centre, Dartford

MUSICAL pedigrees do not come much better than Jacqui Dankworth's enviable heritage.

As the daughter of Dame Cleo Laine and the late Sir Johnny Dankworth, she is known as the 'Princess of Jazz' and entertaining is in her blood. But against expectations, singing was not her first path into show business.

Dankworth first became an actress and enjoyed a suc-cessful career, appearing with the Royal Shakespeare Company and the National Theatre before landing lead roles in West End musicals. But after making a big noise on the stage, Dankworth decided to focus on her recording career and has gone on to distinguish herself in that After touring Hawaii, Hong Kong and Indonesia with her brother Alec's quintet, she worked on a song cycle with award-winning jazz composer and saxophonist Tim Garland. Now Dankworth is noted for her own compositions, along with stunning performances of contemporary songs and jazz standards.

The concert starts at 8pm and tickets cost £17.50/£15.50. Call the box office on 01322 291100. Find out more online at www.themickjaggercentre.com.

PAUL MERTON'S IMPRO CHUMS

Saturday, May 22. Orchard Theatre, Dartford

WATCH one of Britain's best-loved comedians pluck laughter from thin air this weekend.

Armed with nothing but his wit, Paul Merton will lead a group of fellow comics through an evening of improvisation and impromptu gags. Although Merton is perhaps best known for his long-running role on BBC panel show, Have I Got News For You, he is also a skilled improviser.

He will be joined by his Impro Chums – Mike McShane, Lee Simpson, Richard Vranch and Suki Webster – to present a unique comedy show that is entirely guided by the suggestions of the audience. No matter what ridiculous ideas and silly scenarios are put forward, the group will strive to make something out of nothing and create hilarious comedy from the most unlikely beginnings.

All the performers have been improvising with the Comedy Store Players since the mid-90s and a previous Impro Chums lineup went on a highly successful tour of India

The show starts at 8pm and tickets cost £20. Book at www.orchardtheatre.co.uk or call 01322 220000.

Discover a wealth of history and wildlife on our doorstep

BY ED HILL

OUR airports are under siege from volcanoes and striking BA staff, so getting away by plane can be fraught with problems.

Luckily, here in Kent we are in the prime location to take advantage of all that Europe has to offer without needing to board a plane.

A wealth of destinations is less

A weath of destinations is less than half a day away by car and ferry. Picardy in the Somme region of France is a great place to start. The area already attracts a large number of British travellers who visit First World War battlefields, but the region has much to offer those less interested in military history.

After arriving in Calais, drive south for an hour to the Bay of Somme (Baie de Somme). The estuary is considered one of the most beautiful in the world and offers visitors long stretches of sandy beaches and huge skies where you can watch the wildlife or hire bicycles and sand yachts.

One of the biggest attractions for visitors is the Parc du Marquenterre. This nature reserve, which was once a tulip farm created on land recovered from the sea, offers birdwatchers the chance to get close to a wealth of migrating birds.

Familiar species such as herons and oystercatchers can be seen, but there is also the chance to see white storks on their huge nests that look like the end of a chimney sweep's brush, not seen in the UK.

On your way to the region's capital Amiens, why not stop off at the town top of its tower.

The region's capital Amiens, just 30 kilometres away, makes an ideal destination for a short break.

Wander the ancient streets around the cathedral. The mighty gothic structure is a UNESCO world heritage site, with a remarkable façade full of intricate carvings of saints, kings and folklore.

An evening meal in the waterside district of Saint-Leu offers the chance to soak up the atmosphere of French dining.

The area is the historic heart of the city but also offers modern nightlife and attracts large numbers of students who study at the nearby Faculty of Science.

Amiens is situated at the conjunction of a myriad of rivers and canals. First-time visitors should take a boat trip round the floating gardens of the Hortillonnages.

These smallholdings surrounded by water have been cultivated by locals since the Middle Ages. Most are now private gardens, although some still supply fruit and vegetables to local shops.

It is a remarkably tranquil place in the centre of the busy city and uniquely French in character. It's the ideal place to end your visit to a region that deserves being explored again and again.

RAV4 minus x2 equals big savings for buyers

IT is a sign of the times that Toyota has reintroduced a front-wheel drive only option for its 2010 revamp of the RAV4 'soft-roader', available from June 1.

This choice was quietly dropped from the previous generation RAV, but many SUV drivers recognise they rarely need 4x4 and can save money running costs. The cheaper transmission means that

The cheaper transmission means that RAV prices can also be more affordable than of late, with the new 2WD 2.2 D-4D XT-R model opening the line-up at £22,410.

A double mini deal on Citroën's little starlets

FRENCH marque Citroën has launched a three-year/35,000-mile free servicing deal on its C1 city car and new C3 supermini.

The road tax exempt low CO2 and fuel-efficient three/five-door Citroën C1 range sells from £6,995, plus the choice of the free servicing or a £200 contribution towards the first year's insurance.

Meanwhile, the bigger five-door C3 range is available from £8,890 – with £2,000 Citroën Swappage allowance deducted – and that servicing package. Five C3 models also qualify for no road tax.

Vauxhall produce their 'Rolls Royce' of MPVs

VAUXHALL dealers are counting down to the June 18 launch of a second generation Meriva MPV that will surely outsell its predecessor.

It is as space-efficient as before, but the key to the higher sales will be the convenience of the wide rearward-opening back doors tipped to be so useful to parents needing to get small children to get in and out of the car.

It is a feature the Vauxhall shares with the latest Rolls Royce Ghost – though considerably cheaper from £12,995.

DEVIL IN DISGUISE: Subaru's new-look Impreza is slightly more conservative than its predecessor, but still packs a punch with supercar acceleration, going from 0-60 in five seconds

More cultured Scooby star widens its appeal

SUBARU could say cult status ain't what it's cracked up to be.

Pilloried for allowing its Impreza rally icon to go some 15 years more or less unchanged, it was then slammed by so-called purists for re-inventing the car.

But cult status does not always equal big sales and Subaru realised it had to stop disguising the old car with bling alloys and spoilers and three nose jobs in quick

But 'Scooby-Do' fans were divided in 2007, by the belated 'one-size fits all' five-door hatchback replacement for the old saloon and 'estate' options.

I wonder why; the newcomer is far more versatile yet still offers affordable all-wheel drive – a Subaru 'trademark' – across a wide range.

Our test car was the near ultimate model, the lively £27,590 2.5 WRX STi, with supercar acceleration – 0-60mph in under five seconds – but looking more conservative and less Burberry baseball cap than its predecessor.

This is more where Subaru wants and needs to be, especially after adding a diesel option to its cars.

The new WRX STi still thrills too; the big bonnet air scoop adds muscular style and the smooth turbocharged 296bhp flat four or boxer engine sounds good.

You can also tweak the centre differential to distribute more power to either axle and play with the engine/throttle response, but that is track day stuff or something to keep geeks happy; this car is such a taut drive and puts its power down so well that it is hard to drive legally and put such features to the test.

It is also better suited to current times with the accessible hatchback boot also surprisingly roomy, despite that extra transmission beneath the floor.

Being a Subaru, the Impreza should also uphold the brand's reputation for indestructible rally-bred engineering. The six-speed WRX gearshift is not as crisp

The six-speed WRX gearshift is not as crisp as it could be, but that might ease in time, and the basic Impreza interior also looks a bit stark in the top end WRX, despite the usual hot badges and high spec – the test model is more than twice the price of the 1.5R entry car.

But that, in turn, speaks highly of cheaper Impreza models where rally-bred all-wheel drive comes at an affordable price.

Buy-to-let market gets loans boost

Steve Osborne, The Mortgage Man, shares his kowledge with you in this new fortnightly column

THE buy-to-let sector looks likely to be revitalised following the re-introduction of 80 per cent mortgages to this area of the housing market.

It marks an end to a long period dur-ing which lenders were wary of providing funds for the buy to let market and were insisting on borrowers raising a significant deposit before providing any

This requirement stifled the market by making it difficult for investors to withdraw equity from their portfolios to make further purchases

This week's re-introduction of 80 per cent mortgages for buy-to-let properties means that landlords now only need to find a deposit of 20 per cent in order to purchase homes to let.

Although the offer is currently only available to experienced landlords, it is a major leap forward and I expect to see further enhancements in the weeks and months to come

We are still some way off of seeing 85 per cent borrowing available for buy-tolets, which is where we were some time ago, but I don't believe this is a bad thing if we want to see long-term growth and stability in the housing market as a

Fees are still an issue with buy-to-let mortgages, with many lenders charging up to 3.5 per cent at the outset. While this may work for smaller mortgages, it makes larger loans expensive and it would be helpful to see some lenders offering a fixed fee structure

As with all mortgages, landlords need to weigh up the total cost of borrowing and not just consider the headline rate, however appealing it may appear.

This more relaxed lending approach is bound to result in more people buying second homes to let, and with house prices lower than they have been in the past, this may be the right time to buy.

There are lots of options and pitfalls, though, so make sure you get professional advice before considering buying property to let.

Price rise allays fears of 'double dip' market

BY NICK AMES

HOUSE prices will rise by an average of £9,000 this year, despite a slower-than-usual start to 2010, economists have predicted.

Interest rates will remain low, encouraging buyers to return to the market, and this will have the effect of boosting prices by 5.3 per cent this year, according to the Centre for Economics and Business Research (CEBR).

It means the value of the average home in the UK would rise from £169,500, as calculated by Britain's biggest lender Halifax, to £178,500 by the end of this year.

The predictions have gone on to look at how things will turn out over the coming years as well. There will be a lower increase of 3.4 per cent in 2011, followed by a strong rise of nine per cent in 2012, CEBR predicted.

It comes after a fall in prices of more than 16 per cent in 2008 amid the financial meltdown which severely hit the market and led to gloomy predictions about the future.

David Hollingworth, of mortgage brokers London and Country, said: "It does not suggest that the market is back to normal, as transactions remain low, but it is a step in the right direction and it puts paid to suggestions of a double dip in the housing market.

The Bank of England is widely predicted to increase interest rates to 2.25 per cent by the end of 2011, but CEBR forecasts it will remain at 0.5 per cent until then. The group added, however, that the bank rate could be temporarily higher if there was a hung parliament. But the impact of this was likely to be temporary, it said, and within 18 months rates would be back where they would have been if a single party had won the election.

It suggested average mortgage rates will fall from current levels of around four per cent to three per cent by the beginning of 2011 as markets begin to realize that interest rates will stay lower for longer than expected.

Fixed rate loans reach new low

FIXED-RATE mortgages have fallen to their lowest level since April 2007, while average two-year fixed-rate offers have fallen 3.36 per cent since April 2008, according to a new

Hannah-Mercedes Skenfield, the mortgages channel manager for the website moneysupermarket.com, revealed the results of the company's study and said that it was promising that fixed-rate mortgage rates were "moving in the right direction" and were returning to their lowest level since the height of the reces-

She continued: "With inflation rising, the potential for the Bank of England to increase the base rate in the near future increases, so borrowers who are looking to fix their mortgage repayment should consider whether now is the perfect time to switch."

However, Ms Skenfield added that borrowers need to consider any fees associated with the mortgage switch before they make any decisions to grab the lowest rate available, as the deal may not represent the best value in

According to John Charcol research released this week, last month's home loan market was dominated by variable rates, which accounted for 84 per cent of mortgages.

The news comes alongside predictions for the future of the housing market over the next few months.

A spokeswoman for the Council of Mortgage Lenders made her assertions that there will be little movement following release of the Hometrack house price index, which explained that house prices increased by 0.2 per cent in

Furthermore, the supply of homes for sale – coming in at 3.7 per cent of the market as a whole - is outstripping demand, which remains at a comparatively low one per cent.

The representative further explained that there would be a major slowing-down in the market and asserted that the organisation was not expecting too much movement on prices or transactions.

She continued: "There'll be a few ups and downs as we go along which is to be expected but at the moment there are very, very low levels of transactions.

"Not very many people out there are actually buying houses or mortgaging houses at the

St Lawrence & Highland Court 1st XI v Lordswood 1st XI

A HUGE sixth-wicket partnership thwarted Lordswood's chances of victory at St Lawrence & Highland Court on Saturday as the visitors left with just a losing draw.

After their opening game was abandoned due to the weather, Lordswood began the second fixture of the season in good form. St Lawrence opted to bat after winning the toss but the innings looked to be floundering as they were reduced to 116 for 5, with Rob Joseph taking three wickets.

The fifth wicket brought skipper Lewis Jenkins to the crease with Kent wicketkeeper Paul Dixey. The pair made the most of a beautiful batting wicket, putting on a club record 201 for the sixth wicket before Dixey finally fell to Joseph for 143. Jenkins finished 103 not out.

Chasing 334 for victory looked a tall order and with Lordswood's batsmen unable to make a similar contribution to Dixey or Jenkins, it proved a forlorn run chase.

All the visitors' batsmen made solid starts, but only Lyndon Lockhart looked set for a big score until he was run out by Jenkins for 62. Despite falling behind the run rate, Lordswood never looked like losing the game.

Lordswood never looked like losing the game. Matt Iles (22 not out) and skipper Darren Scott (23 not out) negotiated the final overs to deny St Lawrence victory. Next up for Lordswood is a home game against Bromley on Saturday.

Lords hit by Court stand

FRUSTRATED: Lordswood (batting) were unable to seriously rival St Lawrence's huge total, which came thanks to one big partnership

KENT LEAGUE DIV THREE 2ND XI

Rainham 2nd XI v Addington Village 2nd XI

PAUL Swaine put in a captain's performance as he hit 83 to lead Rainham 2nds to a six-wicket victory against Addington Village 2nds. The hosts won the toss and their bowlers made good use of it as Addington were bowled out for 161. Once the stubborn top order were dismissed the rest of the line-up rapidly followed, with Nick Plumridge taking 4 for 43.

Rainham's reply began badly with Paul Newton falling for 1, but Swaine hit 83 to put the hosts on top. John Dangerfield (38 not out) finished the job in only the 26th over.

Borstal 1st XI v Leeds & Broomfield 1st XI

A DREADFUL batting performance saw Borstal slump to a 65-run defeat against Leeds & Broomfield.

After winning the toss, Borstal's bowlers did well to remove the Leeds top order cheaply, with Adam Mahomed and Mark Stevens taking two wickets apiece. The visitors were rescued by runs in the lower order, plus 30 in extras. which took them up to 161.

It should not have posed too many problems, but instead the Borstal batsmen struggled. Only four batsmen reached double figures, while the top scorer was the extras column with 22.

Old Williamsonians 1st XI v Yalding 1st XI

LUKE Butcher's knock of 42 proved crucial as Old Williamsonians condemned Yalding to a 39 run defeat.

Old Williamsonians looked in danger of a heavy defeat, as they were limited to 96, but an inspired performance with the ball ended Yalding's hopes.

Yalding's batsmen were unable to settle at the crease in their reply and were dismissed for just 57 after 25 overs. Phil Patterson was the pick of the bowlers with figures of 5 for 25.

Dover want compensation deal before Hess Gills talks

FOOTBALL

■ BY YOURMEDWAY REPORTER

GILLINGHAM chairman Paul Scally has officially requested permission to speak to Andy Hessenthaler about returning for a second spell as manager.

Scally called Dover chairman Jim Parmenter on Monday to formally request ask for consent to contact Hessenthaler, who guided the Whites to second place in the Blue Square South this season.

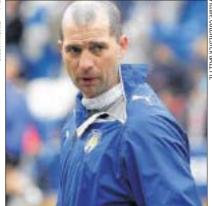

Parmenter confirmed the situation, but with a year still left on the 44-year-old's contract at Crabble, he wants to agree a deal on compensation before Scally speaks to Hessenthaler.

He said: "I have had a conversation with Paul Scally and he has requested to speak to Andy regarding the vacant Gillingham job. We have told Paul that he is under contract at Dover Athletic Football Club and if he were to go we would require fair and equitable compensation."

Mark Stimson left Priestfield last week by mutual agreement following the club's relegation back to League Two. Immediately a host of names were being mentioned in connection with the job, with Hessenthaler topping the wish-list for most Gills supporters after spending four years as player/manager up to 2004.

VACANCY: Andy Hessenthaler, left, has become the favourite to succeed Mark Stimson after Gills chairman Paul Scally requested permission to speak to the Dover boss, with Joe Dunne among the other names linked to the post

Last week the Dover boss said he would not be applying for the job – although he did not rule out accepting a return to league management should he be approached.

Several other names have been linked. Martin Allen has reportedly applied for the vacancy, but when contacted by KOS Media the former Brentford and MK Dons boss declined to comment on the speculation.

Micky Adams, who began his playing career at Gillingham, has definitely not applied for the role, according to his employers Port Vale. Former Gills defender Joe Dunne would be another popular appointment, but the Colchester coach said he would not be commenting at this stage.

There was an obvious chance to promote from within, with first-team coach Mark Robson well known to have designs on becoming a number one.

The main stumbling block is whether Robson is seen as part of Stimson's regime. His best chance was likely to be with a swift appointment last week but instead his contract was terminated by mutual consent, which would appear to rule him out.

RAPID: Tom Dallas (right) won in the first round

Dallas displays one-punch power

CHATHAM heavyweight Tom Dallas continued his impressive unbeaten run with an explosive one-punch knockout of Lee Swaby in the first round on Friday, writes Mick Watkins.

Dallas, 25, was boxing on the undercard of the British flyweight title showdown between champion Shinny Bayaar and Ashley Sexton and underlined his status as one to watch.

Dallas (16st 1lb) was all business from the off and gave Swaby (15st 12lb) no quarter, bulling him to the ropes and hammering in body shots.

A burst of left and rights to Swaby's body echoed around the hall. Swaby, a former British and Commonwealth title challenger at cruiserweight, managed to connect with one left from his southpaw stance but it was his only success of the night.

up, Dallas backed Swaby to the ropes and beat him to the punch with a crushing right hand that slammed the Lincoln man to the canvas.

Dallas said: "I expected it to go three or four rounds. He's been around and is experienced, but once I hit him he went down and stayed down.

Dallas's promoter Frank Maloney said afterwards: "I think it's time to sit down with Tom's team and see where they want to go and start talking about a title fight of some kind."

Dallas, now 10-0 (eight KOs), finished off Swaby quicker than fellow prospect Tyson Fury and new British champion Derek Chisora and may be the sleeper in the current crop of young British heavy-
